LICK-WILMERDING HIGH SCHOOL

FOUNDED 1885

Schools recommend themselves in a variety of ways — the best football team, the largest student body, the most beautiful campus, the most entertaining courses. All of these can be attractive and appealing.

As Headmaster of Lick-Wilmerding, I believe our commitment is of a different tone.

A school should inspire, encourage, and challenge. It should be a place of warmth, concern and help. Those who teach should exhibit, along with the necessary expertise, a special attitude towards students — a willingness to love as they demand, include as they inspire, encourage as they correct — as they see to the task of preparing youth to accept the requirements of a college education.

School is not and never should be a place to generate complacency. Rather it should be a place to reward the human spirit, instill goals and objectives, and present role models that will withstand the attack of conditioned mediocrity and parent unconcern.

A school's weight should be gauged by the degree to which it commits itself to excellence as well as to the degree to which it defies those elements deterring it from excellence.

Lick-Wilmerding is committed to preserving academic excellence.

Mirror

Sometimes I look in the mirror and see a rock.
And I think, "this is what other people must see."
Not a rounded pebble,
but a jagged boulder.
Immobile.
Unchanging.
Unfeeling.

But I think that I'm really an Eagle.
Just wanting to be free
and soar above everyone else,
without having to worry about anyone but me.

And sometimes I think I'm a tree.
Living.
And giving Life.
Always listening and always there.
But never listened to.

I think that I prefer being a stream.
Flowing over those jagged boulders
Until they become round pebbles.
Then perhaps they will roll along with my current,
or stay in place as I pass by;
remaining pebbles all the same.

I WHISPERED, "I am too young,"
And then, "I am old enough";
Wherefore I threw a penny
To find out if I might love.
"Go and love, go and love, young man,
If the lady be young and fair."
Ah, penny, brown penny, brown penny,
I am looped in the loops of her hair.
O love is the crooked thing,
There is nobody wise enough
To find out all that is in it,
For he would be thinking of love
Till the stars had run away
And the shadows eaten the moon.
Ah, penny, brown penny, brown penny,
One cannot begin it too soon.

Well, months of toil gone by, the yearbook is done. I thought it was fun! we attempted some new things and they seemed to work but. It helps to have good cohorts, and mine were great.

Nimble-

Fingered Erik Hom tapped away at the typewriter, Alda Sarah supervised the procedures, and proofreaders Claire, Bruce, Pam, and Lesley caught every mistake!

From behind the lens, Our Mr. Brooks, David L., Julie Malark, Stephen Strager, Bouc, Andrew Grant, Natasha, and Beth led the way.

Close behind were Scott Witherly, Maria, Kalman, Jenny, Audrey R., Garo, the always-on-time Steve White, Sheila Yates, and Max.

Our two fine artists were Sara, who started the book, and Phil, who can be seen here ending it. Additionally, Kate and Mitchell must be recognized for their drive in the achievement of the larger format.

That's it. There is no more. Everyone has been accounted for, so I hope no parents call and complain. IF you ask- is it worth the blocted price? My answer is... yes.

Finally, there's Mr. Penn, who did just about everything. Amazingly, he seemed to always find time to correct and ridicule my German swear words.
